Draft Tom Bonner Campaign Begins

A "draft Tom Bonner" campaign is being conducted by members of both political parties who are dissatisfied with their candidates for the second Congressional district.

The name of Dr. Thomas N. Bonner, head of OU's social science department, will be written in for the office of second District Representative from Nebraska. The party-endorsed candidates are Incumbent Glenn Cunningham, Republican, and Omaha lawyer Joseph Benesch, Democrat.

Spokesman of the group, Bob Gillman, local advertising man, said the write-in drive is in response to widespread belief that "Omaha has a much better man to offer than will appear on the ballot in the elections Nov. 8."

"This is a grass-roots political movement supported by Bonner's friends throughout the community," he said. "Many people have volunteered their services in the campaign."

He suggested that anyone interested in the drive should contact Mrs. Kenneth Helms, 451-2961, or Lennie Boasberg of the Sun newspapers.

Dr. Bonner, a professor of history at OU since 1955, received his Ph.D. from Northwestern University in 1951. Before coming to OU he was a Fulbright lecturer at the University of Mainz, Germany, and Academic Dean of William Woods College, Mo.

A member of numerous historical and educational honoraries and societies, he has authored four books. He is currently working on a history of the Twentieth Century in America.

Publisher Golden To Give Lecture

Harry Golden, publisher of the Carolina Israelite, will participate in a tele-lecture at the 19th annual Book Conference Oct. 13 in the Gene Eppley Conference Center.

Mr. Golden, speaking from Charlotte, N. C., will discuss, "Americans and Reading." Mrs. Harlan Peckham, Mrs. Glen Rydberg and Mrs. A. C. Murdock will conduct a panel in Omaha.

Michael Bellis, CAE director of conferences and short courses, announced that OU students desiring to attend will be given a special rate of $1. The regular fee for the entire 8:30 a. m. to 4:15 p. m. conference is $6.00.

Institute Opens With Africa's 'Loneliest Man'

Africa, a politically-torn continent of new nations, will be represented in the first of this year's World Affairs Institute lecture series next Wednesday.

Musa Amalemba, the first and only native African in the infant government of Kenya, will speak at the OU auditorium at 8:15 p. m.

As minister of housing and builder of Kenya's first multi-racial party, Mr. Amalemba has gained world fame.

His position has brought him a reputation of being "one of the loneliest figures in African politics."

His address, entitled "The Voice of a New Africa," kicks off the fifteenth annual World Affairs Institute under the direction of William Utley, instructor in political science.

The central theme of this year's program is "The West at Bay," Mr. Utley explained.

Other speakers, to appear on subsequent Wednesday evenings, include Lester D. Mallory, deputy assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs; Max Lerner, journalist and world traveler; Allan Merriam, associate professor of anthropology at Northwestern University and a former resident of the Congo; Col. James H. S. Rasmussen, US Air Force; and Douglas Cater, Washington editor of The Reporter magazine.

Students may attend the lectures by showing their activity cards.

Sunday Guests To Tour New Campus

The welcome mat has been put out at Omaha University for all students, parents, patrons and friends to attend the fifty-second open house this Sunday from 2 to 5 p. m.

Seventy-five hundred invitations have been extended and a large turnout is expected by the administration.

Dean of Student Personnel Donald Pfisterer said the time was selected so that there would be no conflict with viewing the World Series games, which are being telecast.

Music to be Presented

Programs will be presented by OU's music department in the Administration Building auditorium at 2 p. m., the Eppley Conference Center Auditorium at 2:45 and Room 101 of the Applied Arts building at 3:30 p. m.

President Milo Bail explained: "This will be a fine opportunity for friends of the University to tour the various buildings and meet the faculty members who are engaged in directing the learning activities of OU."

Coffee Hour Planned

Faculty and staff members will be on hand throughout the department ready to answer all questions for visitors.

Hosts and hostesses will be students from campus student organizations. Waokiya President Judy Lane and President of Omicron Delta Kappa Lyle Franzen are in charge of organizing these guides.

Coffee will be served in the Student Center cafeteria between 3 and 5 p. m.

Conferences Take Bail from Campus

President Milo Bail has been out of town this week, attending meetings in Chicago. He is scheduled to arrive back in Omaha late tonight.

The President attended meetings of the executive committee from the North Central Association during the first part of this week. The last half was spent at meetings of the American Council on Education.

Regent Quits Board

Board of Regents member Daniel W. Campbell has resigned due to moving. A Board rule calls for resignation if a member moves out of the city limits.

Mr. Campbell is president of Thomas Kilpatrick's and Company. His successor will be named by Oct. 20 by the Omaha Board of Education.

Foundation Offers $1500 Fellowships

Several Omaha University seniors will be nominated to compete for Woodrow Wilson graduate fellowships for the academic year 1961-62. Dr. Robert D. Harper, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, has announced.

The number of students to be nominated in the competition, which runs through Oct. 31, is not known, Dr. Harper said.

The Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation annually awards 1,000 fellowships to seniors in universities and colleges throughout the U. S. and Canada for first year graduate study at any U. S. or Canadian University.

The program is designed to reduce the nation-wide shortage of qualified college teachers, but recipients are not asked to commit themselves to college teaching, merely to "consider it seriously" as a possible career.

Candidates for the award must be nominated by a faculty member, then send application forms to the chairman of the selection committee for the region in which they reside. Only students with a 3.5 or above grade average are nominated.

Candidates are chosen for the fellowship after screening and personal interviews by one of 15 regional committees of educators.

The program is open to college graduates mainly in the humanities and social sciences fields. Both men and women are eligible and there is no limit on age.

OU's Dollars and Dimes Again Needed for UCS Annual United Appeal

By Sharon Johnson

Eight children of second grade age sat learning coordination through the manipulation of modeling clay. The scene was one of many in the Omaha Opportunity Center.

Instituted 10 years ago by a group of concerned parents to train the mentally retarded, the Center has set up an academic program for the five-to-10-year-olds and a more advanced vocational guidance program for older students.

For the 65 youngsters now enrolled there is an opportunity to learn the basic fundamentals of becoming a part of their community.

While some enable themselves to accept the responsibilities of near-normal life, others, more seriously retarded, are trained only in the basic tasks of survival.

For those capable, a workshop is maintained to develop motor skills necessary to later job placement. Private tutors are on hand for those who may shine academically.

Even dancing is integrated into the program, under joint direction of instructors and mothers. This, the staff reports, provides experience in getting along in group situations.

Though tuition and donations are the greatest source of income, the United Community Services provide at least a third of the Center's operating budget.

It is one of 55 agencies depending on the UCS for support.

As community service's united front, UCS has a staggering financial task supported solely by your dollars and dimes. Their 1960 goal is a record 2,017,216 dollars.

The University of Omaha has always been generous in supporting this annual campaign.

Through the "Ugliest Man-Cutest-Pan" contest, Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, sponsors the only formal donation drive but voluntary contributions are desperately needed.

This year, the sixth since all 55 charitable agencies joined forces, the cry is louder than ever, "be a good guy and give."

Opportunities in clay pie-making? How to be a child carpenter? All this for children at the Omaha Opportunity Center, a UCS sponsored project.

Junior Journalism Majors Head Gateway

By Russ Grove

This, the first in a series, is intended to better acquaint the readers with the persons responsible for publishing the Gateway each week.

Heading the staff of OU's student newspaper are Editor-in-Chief Linda Strnad and Managing Editor Ken Zimmerman, both juniors majoring in Journalism.

The 20-year-old editorial chief is earning a secondary education certificate and plans a high-school teaching career in English and Journalism.

Her newspaper interests were inspired at South High where, in her senior year, she edited the "Tooter," student newspaper.

Publication work continued at the college level, having served in the past as society editor of the Gateway and directing public relations for the YMCA.

In her present capacity Linda supervises the entire production of the Gateway and must answer for everything which it prints.

She determines which stories receive the greatest "play" and where they will appear. The front page is her personal project each week, leaving most of the remainder to her subordinate department heads.

In addition to the obvious, she must represent the Gateway on the Student Board of Publications, work closely with Publications Business Manager Bob Barnes and pacify printers at the Sun Papers, Gateway publishers.

Not the least of Linda's worries stem from the ever-critical eye of Paul Peterson, head of the Journalism department and faculty advisor for publications.

His comments on the paper's general appearance, content and make-up can never be taken lightly.

"A constant challenge and invaluable experience for teaching journalism" were cited as Linda's principle motives behind her acceptance of the position of editor-in-chief.

Though advocating no major changes in Gateway policy, she expressed a desire to "bring more campus opinions and activities into the paper's columns."

Ken Zimmerman, this semester's managing editor, described his position as one of "overseer" and "aide to the general."

In addition to his weekly "Beyond 30-" column, the 24-year-old second semester junior also handles other news stories, edits, writes headlines and advises new reporters on the staff.

Heading the staff in experience, Ken is now in his sixth year as a full-time reporter-photographer for the Omaha World-Herald.

His regular nightly routine includes the police beat and "any general assignments that occur at night."

His pictures have appeared in many national magazines and nearly every Associated Press-served newspaper in the country.

He is one of four men assigned to photograph all University of Nebraska football games for the Herald.

In 1956 he was nominated for a Pulitzer Prize in photo-journalism and two years ago his year-long production of pictures placed second in the midwest division of the National Press Photographers Association competition.

He served as Gateway sports editor last semester and was picture editor of the 1957 Tomahawk.

Dubbed as "the old man of the staff," Ken refers to himself as a "retired army man." He served six months active duty two years ago.

His future plans call for "getting out of school eventually" and continuing in journalism.

Cadets Shaping Up For First Inspection

The University of Omaha's newly revised Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps will get its first informal military inspection Oct. 12 and 13.

Col. William J. Davitt, assistant commandant, of AF-ROTC Area E will make the inspection during a visit to the University.

Colonel Davitt, recently assigned to Area E, made up of eight mid-western states, said that he plans to make this an informal stop.

Area commanders visit all subordinate attachments of the AF-ROTC to see what the units are accomplishing.

While visiting OU, Colonel Davitt plans to look over administrative procedures and flight instruction programs and discuss policy questions with the AF-ROTC and the University.

Waakiya Honors Letitia Baldrige

By Carol Sue Child

"All Rome was searching for a dog that had just given birth to puppies," said Letitia Baldrige in relating one of her experiences as social secretary to U.S. Ambassador Clair Booth Luce in Rome.

"An ambassador's social secretary must have the talents of a historian, a gardener, a chauffeur, an interpreter, a plumber and the sympathy of a mother confessor," the stylish ex-Omahan explained.

Miss Baldrige spoke on foreign service at a coffee hour in her honor Sept. 29 at OU. Waakiya, senior women's honorary, sponsored her appearance.

Miss Baldrige reveals her experiences and "education" in Parisian and Roman embassies in her book "Roman Candle." As well as authoress and secretary, she has been a former intelligence officer in Washington, D.C., and is now public relations director for Tiffany and Co., New York Jewellers.

"Women make very good diplomats," Miss Baldrige stated explicitly. Stressing the opportunities for women in foreign service, she promoted the field by describing some of her adventures in what she called a "most self-satisfying job." But Tiffany's public relations director said foreign service is a "life of sacrifice—one that requires work seven days a week, 24 hours a day."

The embassy's role, she said, is to combat communist propaganda and promote American interests abroad.

How does one embark upon a foreign service career? Miss Baldrige emphasized the "extensive and exhaustive" study of one foreign language along with secretarial training. The U.S. has many kinds of foreign exchange programs to aid the aspiring diplomat, she remarked. And the benefits are well worth the effort, she added, describing paid trips home and back and month-long annual vacations.

"Americans can impress others abroad if they are informed," she remarked with finality. "Facts are our best defense for bettering American interests in other countries," Miss Baldrige concluded.

A graduate of Omaha Central High School, Miss Baldrige received her B.A. degree from Vassar College, Poughkeepsie, N.Y., then studied French in Geneva, Switzerland.

Homecoming Parade 'Out Of the Question' Downtown

The Student Council Tuesday approved a resolution to seek an alternative parade for Homecoming Weekend Oct. 21-22.

President Lyle Franzen reported that a downtown parade was "out of the question" since OU Band Day activities will call for a downtown parade Saturday, Oct. 15.

Police escort and difficulty in clearing the streets were cited by the president as reasons that would hinder a second parade following so closely.

Council Secretary Karolee Wybenga said: "The majority of students would expect a parade of some kind."

Sophomore Delores Brewer asked why the parade had to be limited to downtown. "Perhaps we could have a parade that would follow a route excluding downtown."

President Franzen said that he "would speak to Dean Donald Pflasterer," in student personnel.

A suggestion was made to give the Homecoming parade, precedence over Band Day activities next year.

10 Workers To Pitch in Committee chairmen for Homecoming were named by Shelia Dunklau, general chairman. They are:

Ceremony, bonfire and dance—Judy Flint.

Ceremony at the game—Karolee Wybenga.

Publicity—Terry Olsen and Max Voigt.

Candidate pictures—Susan Ewing.

Pep rallies—Lyle Franzen and Reed Mencke.

Decorations—Judy Moe, Delores Brewer, Shelia Dunklau.

Motif of the event will revolve around "Squads, Chiefs, Totems and Tom Toms," the Council decided.

Feathers Drop National Ties

The constitution of newly-organized Feathers was read and approved. One major change was made for the group which dropped national affiliation from Phi Sigma Chi. Cheerleader candidates will be required to be members of Feathers for one semester previous to tryouts.

AHA Status Questioned

President Franzen questioned a statement in last week's Gateway in regard to the newly-organized American Humanist Association. The statement, attributed to faculty sponsor Carl Keeler, read that official acknowledgment of the AHA was received from the Dean of Students and the Student Council, Sept. 22.

The president said that he knew of no such action and said "their constitution would have to be read and approved by the council before it could be officially recognized."

'Guys' Talked For Honors

Put off for more time to study was a proposal to name a "mighty warrior" as a male counterpart to Homecoming princess. A suggestion was made to study the possibility of adding a Male Warrior in the spring for male recognition on campus.

Baumer Will Be Scribe

Lowell Baumer was named by the Student Council to sit in on the Tuesday sessions as the official representative of the Gateway. He is the former editor of the student newspaper serving both semesters last year.

Literary Magazine Starts Talent Quest

Entries for the "Grain of Sand" magazine, a publication of essays, poetry, and short stories by students are due Oct. 22 and may be given to any board member or brought to Dr. Wardle's office, room 317 A.

The new board members are Michael Anania, Leanna Haar, Herbert Irwin, Barbara Simon, and Delmar Wilcox.

Chester Wortz and Marilyn Hendricks display their campaign spirit in a "big way."

Some Thoughts on Trimester Schooling

By KEN ZIMMERMAN

From the State Teachers College at Wayne comes word of a radical innovation in college life.

Called the trimester plan, it involves revamping the academic year to consist of three terms of 12 months instead of the customary two semesters and summer school program.

Proponents point out that one may achieve a baccalaureate degree in less than three years under this set-up and efficiency of facilities and faculty is upped by 25 per cent.

Is It Advisable?

Wayne is slated to convert to the system next fall.

My first reaction was one of accord but further thought raised several doubts as to the advisability of such a change.

If it's such a great idea why wasn't it adopted long ago?

Surely someone must have decided that those three months in the summer were being "wasted."

To me the obvious conclusion is that it is not a waste and to deem it as such is the product of rash thought.

Work Is Distraction

Consider first those who must finance their education through summer employment.

Their alternative, full time or even part time work during school, is at best a great distraction to education.

Trimester advocates tell wage-dependent students to drop out of school every third term to do their money-making.

Plan Falters Here

In this they are reverting back to the present system plus granting a month longer vacation and shortening the semesters.

At OU, where probably a percentage of students greater than the national average rely on summer employment, the plan immediately falters.

Trimesterites, in their self-financing plan, also neglect another important factor, continuity.

Having been in and out of school a couple times myself, I never cease to appreciate the value of persistency and recognize the loss absorbed through absence from the educational scene.

Summer Yields Improvement

Whatever the motives were when three months of the year were designated as "vacation," I'm sure they were sound.

Besides financial gain the summer interim provides time for fulfillment of non-academic improvement such as un-assigned reading, something usually foregone during times of study.

For those fortunate enough, there is time for travel.

The relaxation of rigid devotion to scheduled concentration is in itself worthwhile. The mind, like everything else, needs its rest.

And Class-Cutting?

The summer school program should satisfy the needs of those who feel that education should fall into the same mechanical category with everything else being constantly accelerated.

Strict adherence to the two summer sessions will, when taken with a full load during the balance of the year, yield a degree in three years if that's what they're after.

And who can predict the extent of the class-cutting problem during the balmy months of June, July and August?

Giving to the Red Feather—Red Cross drive is like taking a swim in the ocean. It's a wonderful feeling, but a lot of people need a little push to get started.

Beyond -30- Column on AHA Spurs Student Response

Adviser Replies

I would like to correct and comment on some statements which appeared in Mr. Zimmerman's "Beyond 30" column in last week's Gateway.

Whether or not the individual members of the American Humanist Assn., believe in Prof. Koch's ideas on pre-marital relations is their own personal business and has no relation whatsoever with the philosophy of Humanism. The AHA, as an organization, takes no stand, pro or con, on pre-marital relations. This, like voting Democrat or Republican, is left solely to the discretion and conscience of the individual.

In the classroom, a teacher does not have to, indeed, should not, profess his personal social and moral tenets. Even outside of the classroom, he should make it quite clear and explicit that these are his own personal tenets. He should also keep in mind that anything he says reflects back on the university as an institution, and he should exercise the necessary discretion.

The OU chapter of the AHA is not a "godless" organization. Its function on campus is to stimulate student interest and thought in issues of our times, to objectively present all sides of the picture, and to allow the student to make up his own mind on these issues. Indeed, the AHA intends to work with the churches on various social issues.

One of the major purposes of a university is the stimulation of thought, leading to the clarification of old ideas and the creation of new ones. This also is the purpose of the OU chapter of the AHA. It intends to help the University of Omaha continue to turn out mature, thinking individuals, better able to be good citizens-at-large.

Carl R. Keeler,
Faculty Advisor,

Lesson Needed

Since last week's "Beyond -30-" column, anguished cries have been voiced all over campus claiming that the writer was not strict enough or too strict on the AHA.

To the complainers, be they pro or anti—you need a lesson in Reading 101.

Ken Zimmerman did not advocate anything, nor did he condemn anything. That's right, read the article again.

He merely posed two perfectly fair questions:

1. Should an organization with such professed purposes be allowed to operate on campus?

2. Is it not inconsistent to ban Doctor Koch and authorize the AHA at the same time?

While it is apparent from the author's comments, what his feelings are on the subject, he was nevertheless exercising his "academic" right.

Regardless of what one's feelings may be on the subject of free thought, morals, etc., those who claim that their academic freedom is being curtailed had better learn the true meaning of the term.

Richard J. Sheehan
Accordance Expressed

I wish to compliment Gateway Editor Ken Zimmerman for the fine article in your Sept. 30 edition. I am definitely not opposed to free expression of religious and moral beliefs in the U.S., but I agree that a tax supported University should not be the place to form a group dedicated to a philosophy completely adverse to a way of life that most Americans consider superior to any in the world today.

Certainly there are places in this city where soapboxes can be used to proclaim the supposed merits of Communism, Marxism, Leninism, "Humanism," or any other ism. The University of Omaha, however, would certainly not be in keeping with the American principle of government by majority if they had allowed the illustrious Dr. Koch to use public facilities provided by taxpayers to present a system of beliefs diametrically opposed to those which most citizens consider basic to our way of life.

My personal opinion, and the opinion of all of my fellow students with whom I have conversed, is that Dr. Koch is merely another of a long line of rabble-rousers and dissatisfied neurotics who have tried to crumble the foundations of our way of life since 1776.

Any organization that supports his beliefs should be classed in the same manner.
DENIS JENSEN
Views Differ

In differing with the views presented by Mr. Zimmerman in his recent column, "Morals, the AHA, Dr. Koch and OU," I wish it to be understood that I am neither affiliated nor sympathetic with the American Humanist Association or Dr. Koch. I am interested in stating the function of academic freedom and its relation to the idea of a university.

The argument, that because a university is supported by public revenues it is therefore obliged to accept and preserve the social servility of the public, is an argument which repudiates the traditional function of the university. In the light of a tradition which regards the end of education as the development of the individual's ability to independently examine and evaluate his own life and that of his society, academic freedom is necessary.

The selective exposure of ideas to students not officially encouraged to use their own minds cannot be called education. It is not the function of the university to serve as the clearing house of propaganda nor is academic freedom to be equated with intellectual irresponsibility.

As I am the first to realize that such a brief statement does scant justice to the ideals subscribed to by universities in the past, so I am the first to realize that even such a brief statement is not current. A university is now called a "diploma mill" and has assumed the educational characteristics of a trade school. A "university education" is now a matter of social prestige and the economic advantages accruing from that prestige. I hold that this condition is a travesty which the future will not forgive.

SHOW ON WORTH!

NEW '61 CHEVY CORVAIR

More space . . .
more spunk
and wagons, too!

The newest car in America: the CORVAIR 700 LAKEWOOD 4-DOOR STATION WAGON.

CORVAIR 700 CLUB COUPE. Like all coupes and sedans, it has a longer range fuel tank.

CORVAIR 700 4-DOOR SEDAN. Provisions for heating ducts are built right into its Body by Fisher.

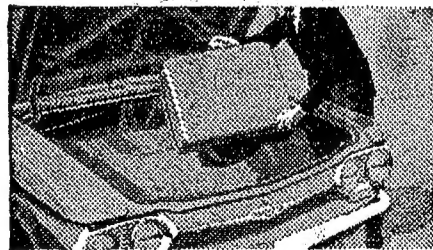

Here's the new Chevy Corvair for '61 with a complete line of complete thrift cars.

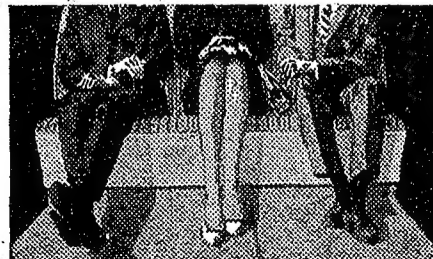

To start with, every Corvair has a budget-pleasing price tag. And Corvair goes on from there to save you even more. With extra miles per gallon . . . quicker-than-ever cold-start warmup so you start saving sooner . . . a new extra-cost optional heater that warms everyone evenly. Riding along with this extra economy: more room inside for you, more room up front for your luggage (sedans and coupes have almost 12% more usable trunk space).

And our new wagons? You'll love them—think they're the greatest thing for families since houses. The Lakewood Station Wagon does a man-sized job with cargo, up to 68 cubic feet of it. The Greenbrier Sports Wagon you're going to have to see—it gives you up to 175.5 cubic feet of space for you and your things.

Corvair's whole thrifty lineup gets its pep from a spunkier 145-cu.-in. air-cooled rear engine. Same rear-engine traction, same smooth 4-wheel independent-suspension ride. See the polished and refined 1961 Corvair first chance you get at your Chevrolet dealer's.

Spare tire is in the rear in coupes and sedans—leaving more luggage space up front.

Even middle-seat passengers sit pretty, thanks to Corvair's practically flat floor.

Now in production—the GREENBRIER SPORTS WAGON with up to twice as much room as ordinary wagons (third seat optional at extra cost).

Mike Michaels and his combo will play for the dance. Mike Richardson, Theta Chi social chairman, is in charge.

College Poses Query

When a boy enters college it's too early to wonder whether he'll become a lawyer or a scientist. The big question is, will he become a sophomore?

Candidates Vie for Typical Freshman

Eleven Omaha University freshmen will compete Wednesday for the honor of being the 1960 Typical Freshman.

The purpose of the annual event is to help freshman students get acquainted.

The all-freshman election, sponsored by the Student Council, will be held from 9 a. m. until 2:30 p. m. on the second floor of the Student Center. Freshmen must have their activity card with them to vote.

The boy and girl elected will reign over the Freshman Mixer which will start at 4 p. m. Wednesday in the Student Center Ballroom. The dance is open to all OU students. A combo will provide the dance music.

Candidates for typical freshman girl are Malanie Jeub, Zeta Tau Alpha, a journalism major; Milda Markus, Sigma Kappa, pre-med student; Shirley Johnson, Chi Omega, journalism major; Jan Moravec, Alpha Xi Delta, music major; and Linda Demel, ISA, journalism major.

Typical freshman boy candidates are Chuck Decker, Theta Chi, journalism major; Dave Hagglund, Tau Kappa Epsilon, physical education major; Ken Allen, Pi Kappa Alpha, physical education major; Bob Crewdson, Lambda Chi Alpha, liberal arts students; Jerry Callahan, Sigma Phi Epsilon, pre-law student; and Jim Bridgeford, ISA, math major.

Lyle Franzen, president of the Student Council, will be master of ceremonies for the mixer and will announce the winning candidates.

Last year's typical freshmen, Judy Moe and Jim Thurman, will present gifts to the winners.

As president of the Student Council, Lyle pointed out that many of the elections are decided by four or five votes and he urges every freshman to vote Wednesday and start off their college years right by supporting the school elections.

In past years, a tie vote was broken by flipping a coin but the rules have been changed this year and if the election results in a tie both candidates will receive the honor.

Campaign rules for the election are printed on Page 4.

The Student Council president also stressed the campaign rules, again of campaigning only by word-of-mouth and no campaigning on the second floor of the Student Center on election day. Violation of campaign rules can disqualify a candidate.

Idaho Is Next; Mines Wins 28-20

The OU Indians will be seeking their first victory of the season as they travel to Pocatello, Idaho, to meet the Idaho State Bengals tomorrow.

The squad left this morning and will return early Sunday.

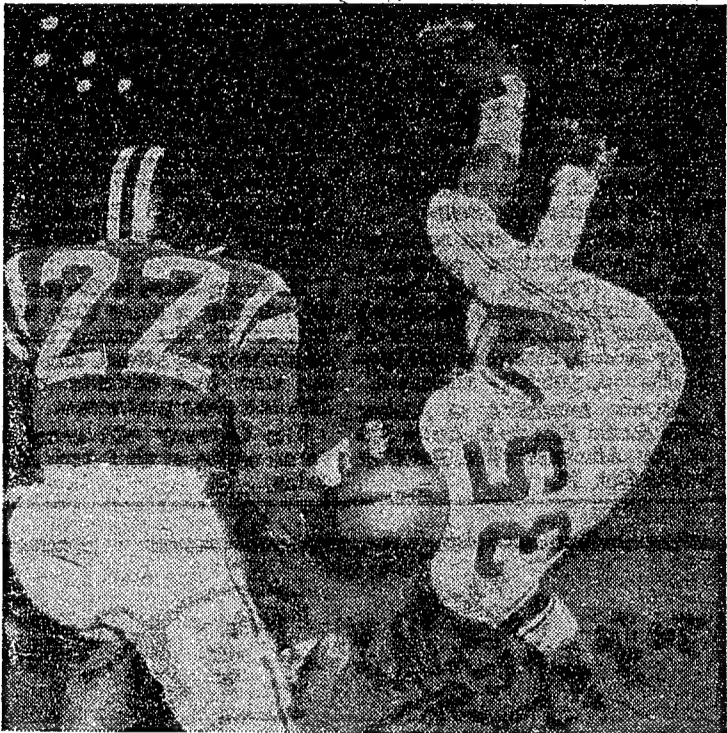

Idaho St., who defeated Colorado Western 46-21 last Saturday, downed the Indians 33-0 last year here.

Indian coach Al Caniglia said the Idaho Staters are probably rated in the top ten of small colleges in the country. Idaho

St. will be the toughest opponent of the OU schedule until we encounter St. Benedicts in a CIC tilt on Oct. 29.

Omaha U's hope of ending a seven-game victory drought was prolonged Saturday night as Colorado Mines dropped the Indians 28-20.

Penalties and fumbles kept the Indian gridders in hot water most of the evening. The Indians were penalized 50 yards, most of which were costly. The Orediggers also took advantage of Louis Miloni, sophomore halfback from Omaha, is the OU Indians leading ground-gainer with 111 yards in 24 carries.

Nearest competitor is George Payne, sophomore halfback, with 87 yards in 25 carries. Mike Con-

Miloni is averaging 4.6 yards per carry and Payne, 3.3.

Dave Gibson, sophomore quarterback from Nokoma, Ill. leads in the passing department, with 13 completed out of 26 tried for 224 yards and two touchdowns. Jacques Routt, freshman quarterback from Columbia, Mo., is next with three completions in seven attempts for 35 yards. Gibson has had three passes intercepted and Routt one.

The Indians have amassed a total of 317 yards rushing against their opponents 513. Passing has netted OU 259 yards compared with the opposition total of 361.

OU leads in the punting department with 35.6 yards per kick compared with opponents total of 35.3.

The 20 points scored against Mines is the highest total since the Emporia State win last year. The team also scored 20 points in that game.

The squad is in good physical condition. Converted end John Glassman who saw limited action at tackle should be ready for Idaho State.

Can Yankees Do It Again?

By Jerry Hinds

Will they? Or won't they? That is the question.

Comments around OU are wide and varied as to whether the Yankees will do it again, or will the Pirates, winning the first pennant in Pittsburgh in 33 years, defeat the perennial Yankees.

"I think the Yankees will take it," reports a disgusted Freshman. "I want Pittsburgh to win, but the Yankees hit the long ball consistently and they have more world series experience."

"I think Pittsburgh will take it in six games," an optimistic Senior declared. "If Dick Groat can play I think they'll do it even quicker," he finished.

A comely coed told your reporter "I want the Pirates to win, but I'm afraid of the Yankees and Mr. Stengel."

Her friend profoundly declared, "The Pirates better win! The Yankees should be taken down a notch or two!"

"I want the Yankees to win, and I think they'll do it with guys like Mantle and Berra on the team," another Senior predicted.

Girls' Sports Softball Starts; Grads Return

The softball season officially started for the Women's Recreation Association with a three-day schedule last week.

On Tuesday Sigma Kappa met Alpha Xi Delta; on Wednesday Zeta Tau Alpha clashed with Chi Omega and Sigma Kappa faced Unaffiliated on Thursday.

Seven players must be present at the outset of a contest and the team must continue with no less than seven. The games begin at 4:00 p. m. or no later than 4:15 p. m. and last five innings or no later than 5:15 p. m. If, however, one team should gain a 10-run advantage, the contest is halted at that point and the winner declared.

Next Tuesday, Oct. 11, will find Unaffiliated opposing Zeta Tau Alpha; on Wednesday, Oct. 12, Zeta Tau Alpha will face Alpha Xi Delta; and on Thursday, Oct. 13, Chi Omega will meet Alpha Xi Delta.

Majors and Minors

With candy M and M's for refreshments, the M and M's, the Women's Physical Education Majors and Minors Club, held their first monthly meeting last Monday evening, Oct. 3, in the PE hut.

Plans for the future were discussed which include an overnight at Camp Brewster scheduled for Oct. 14. At that time a buddy-system is expected to be initiated whereby each freshman member will be assigned an upper classman to guide her in the club's activities.

New members and freshmen in the club include Gail Fielding, Lizz While, Rose Allender, Mary Mooney, Jan Seaman, Judy Geis, and Kathy Moran.

The next meeting of the M and M's is scheduled for Monday, Nov. 7.

Pittsburgh St. Tops Early Season Foes

There have been no Central Intercollegiate Conference games as yet. Omaha U's conference schedule begins with the Fort Hayes State game, at OU Stadium, 2 p. m. October 15.

In all games so far, Pittsburgh State leads the league teams with a perfect three wins and no loss record. It is the only undefeated team.

St. Benedict's is next in rank with a one and one standing.

Three teams have identical one win and two loss records. They are: Ft. Hayes St., Emporia State, and Washburn.

Omaha U. ranks last among conference teams with a no win, one tie, and two loss record.

Sig Ep, Lambda Chi Lead Intramurals

Intramural flag football will move towards the halfway point in the schedule next week, and bowling will enter the third week of competition.

Sig Ep, the only undefeated team is the current leader, having defeated Pi Kap 6-0 in their only game.

In other games Zeke Moe Joes edged the Tekes 3-0, and upset Casey's Crew, defending champs 9-6. Theta Chi won overtime games over the Eagles 8-7 and Pi Kaps 1-0. The Tekes won over ISA 21-6 and ran up the highest score of the season.

A new field is being used this year in addition to the Women's P.E. field. The Dodge Street field, north of the Applied Arts parking lot, is being used on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights to allow the women to use their field for their own intramural program.

Flag football standings as of Tuesday, Oct. 4, are as follows:

Mike Cochran Captains Omaha U. Football Team

Mike Cochran, captain of the Omaha U. football team, is the only married man on the squad. Mike is a graduate of Benson High School, where he was a three year letterman in football and a two year letterman in baseball.

He attended the University of Nebraska for two years before transferring to OU. It was at NU where he was converted to his present position of center. He had played tackle until that time.

Mike, who belonged to Sigma Alpha Epsilon at NU, is majoring in personnel management.

He married Sally Wells, his "childhood enemy," in 1958. Mike and his wife have one child and another on the way. Mike, Jr., will be two years old this month.

Mike feels that all is not lost for the OU team yet. According to him, "OU has a good ball club this year but we just haven't been getting the breaks."

Two Congressmen Address Students

Two Nebraska Congressmen addressed OU students Sept. 30, at a Republican rally in the Applied Arts Building.

Senator Carl Curtis told the group that "the survival of our country in its conduct to defeat Communism . . . and the financial responsibility in maintaining it" are the two most important issues in the current Presidential race.

Curtis also mentioned a better social security program, improved farm legislation and the conservation and development of natural resources as parts of the Republican platform.

"There are no perfect political parties," he said. "Instead of a perfect party, look for one which meets your ideals."

"It is in the peoples' hands to improve the government or to dissipate it and cause it to disappear," he added.

Curtis endorsed the Republican Presidential and Vice-presidential candidates as being "highly competent."

Also speaking at the rally were Representative Glenn Cunningham, Douglas County Commissioner Leonard Burgman and Candidate for the Douglas County Board Dexter Nygaard.

Fast Trip for Gridders

The football squad is looking forward to a weekend with little rest. They have a quick flight to Pocatello, time for a workout, play the game and fly back.

A 31-man squad will make the trip to Pocatello. The Indians will leave Omaha Friday at 8:00 a.m. and return home early Sunday morning. Coach Caniglia and his club will travel by chartered plane.

This is the longest trip the team will make during the season. Idaho State is a member of the Rocky Mountain Conference which is the same conference as Adams State and Colorado School of Mines belong to.

Survey Shows Paid Grad Students Are Now Commonplace

Graduate students, as a group, are better off than most people realize.

Half of them, according to a report published in the October issue of Changing Times magazine, had incomes of four hundred dollars or more a month during the academic year 1959-60.

Scholarships and fellowships accounted for the financing of masters and doctorates in two-thirds of the cases studied.

Of those, the article points out, natural science is the most lucrative field.

The survey revealed that a post-grad in that department, though ranking in the bottom 40 per cent of his class, stands a better chance for an assistantship than one in the top 20 per cent in either social science or the humanities.

"Wives of graduate students without children work and their jobs are a major source of income," the magazine states. "If there are children, the male grad student usually works—and, according to the study, he's the only type of graduate student who has serious financial worries."

$1,500 for living expenses plus full tuition and family allowances.

Two OU graduates received fellowships last year. They are Bob Zick, who is studying philosophy at the University of Minnesota, and Rosalie Cohen, who is studying literature at the University of Iowa.

Six OU graduates have received fellowships since the program was instituted in 1946. Dr. Harper said that this number is more than any other college in Nebraska except for the University of Nebraska.

Names of this year's winners will be announced on March 15, 1961.

Space Blanks Must Be Returned Oct. 15

Space reservation blanks for the 1960-61 Tomahawk have been distributed to all campus organization presidents or sponsors.

The reservation blanks are to be returned to the Student Publications Office, Room AA 116 or Room AA 130 by Oct. 15.

If an organization has not received a blank and wants a picture in the Tomahawk, the faculty sponsor should be contacted. If he has not received a blank, one may be obtained in Adm. Rm. 238 or in the Student Publications Office.

Pressbox Coaching

Omaha U. head coach Al Caniglia will initiate a new kind of coaching at the Idaho State game this Saturday.

He will do his coaching from the pressbox rather than his customary position on the sidelines.

Orchestrals Tryouts Bring Two Members

Sherry Alston and Carole Lind were initiated into Orchestral, modern dance honorary, at the Tuesday meeting.

Tryouts were held during the last two weeks in the West Quonset with active members of Orchestral judging.

The group, which now consists of 16 members, is preparing for upcoming appearances. Orchestral will perform for the Nebraska State Physical Education Convention which will be held at Omaha University in November and they will also hold their annual high school clinic.

Teacher Placing Subject for SEA

Mrs. Yvonne Harsh from the Omaha University Placement Office was the guest speaker at the first SEA meeting Wednesday.

Mrs. Harsh spoke on the problems of teacher placement.

The officers for this semester are Kay Hoischire, president; Karolee Wybenga, vice-president; Marie Walters, secretary; Madeline Chappell, treasurer; Mary Schoep, historian; and Linda Strnad, publicity chairman.

Anyone interested in joining SEA should sign up in Room 200 of the Administration Building before Oct. 21.

'The Last Hurrah,' Noted Movies Set For Student Center

"Movie fans have a treat coming next week as the first of twelve "Class A" movies will be shown in the Student Center," Assistant Dean of Student Personnel Curt Seimers, said.

Three p. m., Oct. 13 has been set for the showing of "The Last Hurrah," starring Spencer Tracy; but Mr. Seimers points out that the film may be rescheduled due to heavy demands on the meeting rooms. Barring complications, rooms 312 A-B will be held open for activity card holders.

"The Movies are strictly for entertainment," Mr. Seimers said. "Although 'The Last Hurrah' has political tones, it was selected chiefly for its entertainment value."

"Pal Joey," "All The Kings Men," "On The Waterfront," and "From Here to Eternity" are some of the other films in the series.

However, there is the problem of selecting a show time which will enable the largest number of students to attend. Mr. Seimers asks that students contact him and show preference.

The Gateway will carry advance notice of all future movie dates.
